Burdensome

The records you seek are not readily available and would be unduly burdensome to gather, compile, redact, and produce.

A public entity need not produce records that are not readily available and would require research, compilation and redaction to produce. See Lunney v. State, 418 P.3d 943, 954 (Ariz. Ct. App. 2017) (recognizing that the agency was not required to respond to the burdensome request); Shehadeh v. Madigan, 996 N.E.2d 1243, 1249 (Ill. App. Ct. 2013) (holding that the Attorney General satisfied its burden by explaining that its staff members would have to go through all of the 9,200 potentially responsive documents by hand); Beckett v. Serpas, 112 So.3d 348, 353 (La. App. Ct. 2013) (determining that segregating 10-years worth of files is unreasonably burdensome); C*ommunity Youth Athletic Ctr. v. City of Nat'l City*, 164 Cal.Rptr.3d 644, 676, 220 Cal.App.4th 1385, 1425 (2013) (generally, an agency is not required to undertake extraordinarily extensive or intrusive searches, and in general, the scope of an agency's search for public records need only be reasonably calculated to locate responsive documents) .

To determine if producing documents "poses an unreasonable administrative burden," courts consider whether the general presumption in favor of disclosure is overcome by: "(1) the resources and time it will take to locate, compile, and redact the requested materials; (2) the volume of materials requested; and, (3) the extent to which compliance with the request will disrupt the agency's ability to perform its core functions." Lunney, 418 P.3d at 954; cf.

NAC 239.860 (defining "readily available" for purposes of State agencies as records that are "easily retrievable," "not confidential," and having a "nature...such that an officer, employee or agent of the agency...is not required to review the record to determine whether the record includes confidential information").

Please reformulate your request. If you can narrow your focus to records that are readily available, LVMPD can proceed with researching your request.
